

Predicted clusters are colored categorically and colors are not label-matched across methods; predicted noise is light gray.
High-dimensional datasets are shown by PCA without changing the clustering input.